

David M. Rowe, Ph.D.
Executive Vice President - Risk Management
SunGard

David M. Rowe is executive vice president for risk management at SunGard in London. In this role he provides strategic input to SunGard's solutions for risk management and serves as an external spokesman on risk management issues. He appears frequently at industry risk management conferences and has written a monthly column for Risk magazine since 1999.

Prior to joining SunGard, Dr. Rowe spent more than 25 years in the banking and economic forecasting industries, most recently as senior vice president of the Risk Management Information group at Bank of America in San Francisco. In that role, Dr. Rowe had executive oversight and responsibility for the design, deployment, maintenance and operation of market and credit risk systems for the bank's global FX, derivative and securities trading activities.

Dr. Rowe's earlier positions include chief financial officer of Security Pacific Securities, Inc. (the broker-dealer subsidiary of the former Security Pacific Corp.); executive vice president and director of research for Townsend-Greenspan & Co. (Alan Greenspan's economic consulting firm prior to becoming Chairman of the Federal Reserve.); and president of Wharton Econometric Forecasting Associates in Philadelphia.

His industry positions include:

- Board member of the International Association of Financial Engineers (IAFE)
- Board Member and Co-chairman of the Education and Standards Committee of the Professional Risk Managers' International Association (PRMIA)
- Member of the editorial board of The Journal of Operational Risk
- Co-chairman of Risk Who's Who

Dr. Rowe holds a Ph.D. in econometrics and finance from the University of Pennsylvania, an MBA in finance with a concentration in money and banking from the Wharton Graduate School of Finance and Commerce and a BA in economics with distinction from Carleton College.
